A: You're actually receiving this error in the logger, not in the UnitCompiler. This is because of the error handling in the logger. The logger is only logging exceptions that happened in the UnitCompiler. To solve this, replace your logger with this one (and remove the catch): `logger = LoggerFactory.getLogger(this.getClass());` Nitrate reduction by the mitochondria. Anaerobic denitrification is thought to take place in all animal cells and most bacteria. As reviewed here, many studies indicate that respiring mammalian mitochondria reduce nitrate, the simplest member of the nitrogen cycle. In addition, cells bearing respiring mitochondria exhibit membrane potentials that favor electron transport from the substrate and ATP production. The physiological significance of this pathway is suggested by experiments that show that it provides a nitrate-reducing electron flux to sites of nitrite production and ultimately to methemoglobin. It is very typical to see an incremental increase in the price of Bitcoin as it reaches certain price levels. However, its price has been falling ever since it reached $5,000 per BTC back in December 2017 and the present bullish momentum of Bitcoin has been a real eye opener for the average investor. The cryptocurrency is trading at over $8,400 at press time and it has surpassed its 2018 high of $8,500. In fact, the coin has managed to surpass all the 2018 quarterly highs. The best part of it is the rise of the Bitcoin futures trading which has helped it achieve this amazing feat. Bitcoin Cash Beat All Quarterly Record at $7,000 Bitcoin Cash has also surpassed all its 2018 quarterly records. Its price passed the mark of $7,000 per coin on October 1, 2018. It is the second-highest price recorded for the cryptocurrency to date and this is the highest price ever reached by Bitcoin Cash in just six months. In fact, this is the first time the coin has surpassed the record highs of the three other altcoins. Bitcoin (BTC) topped $7,500 per coin on October 2, 2018. The altcoin also touched $7,700 on October 3 and it did break the record it set earlier in the day. However, the rally was too limited as it ended up trading at around $6,800 after a sudden decline. This shows that Bitcoin Cash is currently trading at the highest price that it had reached since June 2018. Interestingly, Bitcoin Cash has also reached its
